PRESIDENT MAY RETURN THIS WAY.

Decides to Go to Washington After His Visit to Morgantown.

NOT GOING THROUGH FAIRMONT

Chamber of Comemrce There Receives Word That President's Visit Will Be Impossible—Likely to Stop Here for Short Time.

President Taft and party will in all probability return from Morgantown to Washington by way of Connellsville. Under the present schedule the Presidential special train will pass twice through here, first on Tuesday night, en route to Morgantown, and returning Wednesday afternoon on its way eastward.

It was learned today that the present schedule does not provide for taking the President eastward through Fairmont. The Chamber of Commerce there has been notified that this will prevent the President from making an address there.

After attending the exercises of installing President Hodges at the head of the University of West Virginia, the Presidential special will leave Morgantown about 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Although it was reported that the special might be taken eastward over the Morgantown & Kingwood railroad, it is stated that the officials of that road have not been informed of such a plan and do not expect to be called upon to handle the party. This indicates that Mr. Taft will return over the Baltimore & Ohio to Connellsville and then proceed eastward.

It is expected that the Chamber of Commerce will immediately take steps to have the President make a brief address here on his way back from Morgantown. If the tentative program is carried out it will be impossible for Mr. Taft to do this without altering his present schedule. As yet the Chamber of Commerce has received no reply to its request that the President alter his schedule in order to be able to make an address here and it is probable that Secretary Hilles has delayed responding to the invitation because of this latest plan of travel.

The daylight trip from Morgantown to Connellsville will afford the President an opportunity of catching a glimpse of the Connellsville coke region which otherwise would have been impossible. By leaving Morgantown at 1 o'clock it should be possible for him to arrive in Washington before midnight. The President has changed his original plans and will return to the White House before continuing to Hot Springs, Virginia. The original announcement was that the party would go direct from Morgantown to the Hot Springs, and from there the President would go to Cincinnati to cast his vote on election day. It is necessary for him to go to Washington and from there he will proceed to the Virginia winter resort.

Elaborate preparations are being made for the entertainment of the President at Morgantown. He is not expected to arrive there until 8 or 8.30 Wednesday morning. At 9 o'clock he will be taken on an automobile ride around the city. L. G. Wheeler, a member of the Secret Service force, is in Morgantown going over the arrangements with the committee in charge.

United Press Telegram.

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—President Taft conferred with Secretary Meyer today and decided that instead of leaving Morgantown for Hot Springs he will go to Washington and thence to New York for the naval mobilization on November 2. He will then return to Hot Springs for a rest and thence to Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee.

The President mailed his registration papers from a special train last week but they failed to arrive in Cincinnati in time and he will not be allowed to vote at the municipal election in November. He will go to Cincinnati anyway.

Today the President addressed the American Mining Congress and discussed the perils attached to mining. He expressed the hope that the scope of the Congress' work would continue to grow.

TWO HUNDRED CHILDREN HEAR STORY AT LIBRARY

Record Attendance of Little Tadgers Listen to Miss Sallie Seaton Tell the Wonderful Tale of a Japanese Fairy.

A record-breaking attendance marked the opening series of the children's story hour yesterday afternoon at the Carnegie Free Library. It was held at the close of school and was attended by over 200 school children from the first and second grades, a record attendance. Miss Sara Seaton, assistant librarian at the Carnegie Free Library, was in charge and told to the children a very delightful Japanese fairy story. Japanese stories have proved to be very popular with the children and similar stories will be told during the early part of the winter. As heretofore the stories will be told every Friday afternoon at the close of the school.

The wonderful tale of the Jap fairy was told in the story hour room which is neatly and attractively fitted up in the basement of the library. The attendance was the largest since the story hour was introduced at the Library several years ago and every child present gave the closest of attention. Their countenances showed that it was thoroughly enjoyed. Indian stories will likely be introduced later in the winter.

Washington High Here for Game.

Washington High School's football team arrived in Connellsville this morning. The team looked fit and promises to give the Connellsville boys one of the hardest games they have yet played. Weather conditions are ideal for good football this afternoon, the air being cold and almost clear.

It is expected that Connellsville will be outweighed by the visitors but they are not afraid of a few extra pounds of snow in the opposing line and backfield. The boys here have learned more football during the past week than at any other time during the season. Bishop will be out of the game at fullback today. He is laid up with the grip. Sheetz will play in his place and this will be the only change from the regular lineup.

Tonight the High School girls will give a supper for the two teams and at the same time endeavor to raise money towards the Athletic Association. It will be the first supper of the season. Supper will be served in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium from 5 until 8 o'clock.

J. Rohm. The bids are being submitted to Division Engineer J. I. Palmer of the Connellsville & State Line railroad, although the provisions are that they be addressed to J. B. Hogg, civil engineer, and marked "Street Improvement."

The streets upon which bids are asked are the following: Sixth street, between Graham and Leisenring avenues; Leisenring avenue between Sixth and Eighth streets; Marietta avenue from Seventh street to the alley running between and parallel to Seventh and Eighth streets; and the alley running south of and parallel to Ashman avenue, from Seventh street to the alley between Seventh and Eighth streets.

Finish Federal Job Next Week.

If the weather continues at all favorable Contractors O'Connor & Madigan will complete their contract on the excavation for the new Federal building by next Thursday. With their steam shovel they have made good time on this work despite inclement weather which handicapped them from the start. The frequent rains made the earth cling to the scoop in such a manner that it was impossible to take out the yardage as quickly as could have been desired. The rain also made the dump soggy, which also caused some little loss of time.

Despite this fact the contractors have made excellent progress and are completing their end of the work as quickly as could have been desired. With the aid of the steam shovel it has been possible to take off the surplus surface earth and excavate for the foundation days earlier than would have been possible with a big pick and shovel gang.

Runaway Boys Taken Back Home.

Policeman Morris Roach of the North Side, Pittsburg, came to Connellsville last evening and returned later with the two runaways boys arrested here the evening previous by Officer Frank Baxter. The lads were Morris Roach, Jr., aged 15, and Stodley Morrison, aged 14. Instead of earning the money to pay their carfare to Connellsville it developed that young Roach borrowed $3 from the corner grocerynan and said he wanted it for his mother.

Yesterday Squire A. O. Bixler, the borough clerk, took the lads to his East Murphy avenue home and saw that they had a wholesome dinner. As the lads had not been overfed since running away from home they partook ravenously of the meal after once being persuaded to join with the Squire and his family. Squire Bixler said he thought they were pretty nice youngsters.

The boys came to Connellsville to go chestnut hunting. Neither had ever seen a chestnut tree, so the Squire was told, and to satisfy their curiosity to some extent the borough clerk took them upon the Pinnacle where they could look down upon the valley to the east of town and the mountains beyond.

After the lads had gone home Samuel Gibson, uncle of the Roach boy, came to the police station looking for them. Gibson came to Connellsville a few months ago to work on the new Parochial school. He liked the neighborhood so well that he bought a little home out at Poplar Grove. From there he wrote the Roach family, telling of the bushels of chestnuts that he had gathered. Little did he dream that this simple tale of roaming the mountains in search of the chestnuts would cause Morris Roach and his companion to run away from home. He appeared worried when he came to the police station last night but was relieved to know the boys' parents had located them.

Morris Roach, the father, seemed somewhat put out because his boy had run off but those about City Hall believe the youngster will escape with nothing more serious than a heart to heart conference behind the woodshed.

Federal Courts After McNamaras.

United Press Telegram

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 28.—District Attorney Miller, representing the government, today petitioned the criminal court for the removal of the evidence, except dangerous explosives, in the dynamiting case against the McNamaras, through the jurisdiction of the Federal authorities.

It was declared that the Federal Grand Jury will convene on November 7 to investigate and that much of the desired information is contained in the documents of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers. It is said this information will show that the McNamara brothers and Ortie McManigle violated the criminal laws of the United States by unlawfully transporting explosives from Indiana to other states on passenger trains engaged in interstate commerce.

McNamara Case Growing Bitter.

United Press Telegram.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 28.—It is evident that the feeling between the counsel and the court in the McNamara case is becoming more and more intense and as far as the defense is concerned plans are being laid to renew the application for a change of judge. The original charges against Judge Bordwell will be renewed regardless of what his decision in the matters of Jurors Fisher and Frompton might be.

Attorney Darrow's action in demanding that Judge Bordwell act on each challenge for cause is resulting in friction and Darrow's implication that the court is playing into the hands of the procution is resented by the judge. Darrow says he has been left no alternative in the matter but to draw such a conclusion.

Terrence Murphy In Given Surprise.

Terrence Murphy, after 28 years of service as carter on the Davidson yard of the H. C. Frick Coke Company retired voluntarily September 30, and will receive a life pension of $12 per month from the Frick Coke Company Pension Fund. A voluntary contribution was made by his fellow workmen to purchase a gift for their old comrade who is well liked and respected by all.

Mr. Murphy was lured away by a ruse from his home on Eighth street last evening and when he returned he found a crowd of his friends seated in the parlor. Lloyd Stillwagon made a speech presenting him with a big leather rocking chair and a meerchaum pipe. The accessories were not forgotten as a package of his favorite tobacco was included. To say Mr. Murphy was surprised is a mild quotation as it was the first time in the memory of his oldest friends that he was not able to respond with his usual quick-witted answer. He however, proceeded to make use of his gifts and after lighting his pipe, settled down in his big arm chair, the picture of content.

A very pleasant evening was spent at the close of which Mrs. Murphy and her two daughters, Rose and Mary, piloted the party to the dining room where a well appointed lunch was served. Those present were as follows. John Ridgeway, Robert Finerty, Lloyd Stillwagon, Felix McArdle, W. L. Buttermore, A. W. Bowman, Hiram Regar, Chester Ridenour, Mike Klug, R. C. Imagine their amazement when they saw the masked face of a man in the mirror. Some excitement prevailed and the ladies fled in terror. Later in the evening a Hallowe'en luncheon was served.

The residence of Miss Eliza DuShane on Witter avenue was the scene of a very enjoyable Hallowe'en social given by the Baptist Young People's Union. Stock Company Is Coming to Arcade.

By paying a large guarantee for the same, A. H. Wallace of the Arcade Theatre, has made arrangements with Harry Beeson, manager of the West End Theatre and owner of the West End Stock Company of Uniontown, for their appearance at the Arcade Theatre all of next week.

This company comes highly recommended from Uniontown and has been playing at the West End Theatre there for the past six weeks and Mr. Wallace is only able to secure them for this week on account of the fact that Mr. Beeson has a number of road attractions booked at the West End for that week, and rather than lay the company off, made arrangements for them to play in Connellsville.

The company will open Monday matinee in the successful four act comedy drama, "Jerry the Tramp," and will repeat the same bill Monday and Tuesday nights. On Wednesday matinee, Wednesday and Thursday nights the farce "A Married Man's Troubles," will be the bill. Friday and Saturday nights, with Saturday matinee, they will close their engagement with "The Heart of the Woods," a western comedy drama.

In addition to the clever acting members of this company there is one of the cleverest child actresses that ever appeared in Connellsville, Baby Frances Moore, who is setting the theatre goers in Uniontown crazy with her clever singing of the most difficult songs.

A petition freely signed by the business and professional men of Somerset, was forwarded this week to the B. & O. railroad officials, asking for a better schedule of passenger trains over the Somerset & Cambria branch when the winter schedule is adopted. The request is not an unreasonable one, and it is also one with which the company can easily comply.

The petitioners ask that the crew of the Meyersdale Johnstown back lay over at Somerset, and that a train running from Somerset connect with the Duquesne Limited, east and west. If the request is granted, passengers could travel to and from Pittsburg in a day and have several hours in that city for the transaction of business.

A Famous Walking Match.

The match was a stretch of about six miles over the Boston milldam toward Newton Center. In the articles of agreement the signatures were stated to be:

The Boston Bantam.....J. R. Osgood
Massachusetts Jemmy.....James T. Fields
The Gudshill Gasper.....Charles Dickens

At the dinner given by the contestants at the Parker House, in Boston, after the fatigues of the match were over there were present besides the above:

Hyperion.....H. W. Longfellow
Hosea Biglow.....J. R. Lowell
The Autocrat.....O. W. Holmes

Dark Stars.

Scattered through space are innumerable stars that give forth very little light or heat. Either they were never at any period of their history bright and glowing like the myriad stars that make the midnight sky so beautiful or in the course of countless ages the heat they once possessed has radiated away from them into the depth of space, and now they are, as their name describes them, "dark stars."

"FULL CREW" CASE ENDS

Testimony All In and Argument Starts Today.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 52.—Testimony was completed by both sides in the Pennsylvania Railroad's test case of "full crew" act of 1911 in the Dauphin county court last night and today argument will be made. John G. Johnson of Philadelphia will make the chief address for the company and Attorney General John C. Bell will speak for the State, and James Scarlet of Danville for the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, which is aiding in defending the law, having been active in securing its enactment.

Trainmaster and other officials testified that in their opinion, based on experience and observation, the act was unnecessary and very expensive. This testimony was contradicted by the defense, which offered about 25 railroad employes.

Cooking Breakfast in Bed.

Surely no one should have trouble in keeping a cook in a house with all electric appliances, like those described in the September issue of Suburban Life. The author says: "In connection with the wiring of the house, a switch was located in the maid's bedroom at the head of her bed. When she first awoke in the morning she could turn this switch and start the coffee and cereals before getting out of bed. She would get these dishes ready before retiring for the night and then simply insert the plugs in the electric dishes ready for turning the switch the next morning. Thus she was always sure of avoiding delay, which is not always true with a coal range. At the best the fire in the coal range would be just about 'coming up' by the time the maid was dressed and in the kitchen. With the electric outfit the coffee and the cereal were practically ready to serve."

It is nothing strange for a horse to scare at an automobile but it is a little out of usual for a human biped to take fright at the horseless vehicle, but they will do it sometimes as was demonstrated the other day. As H. R. Sackett was driving his 40 H. P. Buick with a party of friends in, as he was passing a farmer that was husking corn in his field along the Morgantown road, the farmer looked up and saw the whiz waggon apparently come right at him, he gave it one wild stare and throwing corn basket high over his head and bolted. He went down the corn row like greased lightning, cutting all the didos of a bucking broncho. His actions were inexplicable to all the party except Hugh. There is an explanation for them and if you want to know just ask Hugh.

ECZEMA ON SCALP HEALED IN 4 DAYS

Small Mattery Pimple on Top of Child's Head. Broke and Formed Hard Crust, Very Itchy. Not a Sign of It Since Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured Her.

"It affords me pleasure to tell of the good Cuticura Soap and Ointment have done my little girl. She had eczema on the scalp last fall. The trouble began in this way. First a small mattery pimple appeared. The pimple broke and the matter, a watery substance, ran on the skin, forming a hard crust which was very itchy. It was on the top of her head, and the crust became as large as the palm of my hand. My doctor said it was a form of eczema.

"I used a remedy but had no success with it. I used it nearly two weeks, then a friend recommended Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I used the Cuticura Ointment, applied it on the scalp at night and morning, and in four days the scalp was all healed, no sign of crusts or scabs could be seen. Then I washed her hair with Cuticura Soap. She has not had a sign of eczema since. Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured her, and I shall always keep them in my house.

"I can prove this statement by my neighbor and family." (Signed) Mrs. H. B. Cooley, Marlboro, N. Y., Apr. 3, 1911.

For more than a generation Cuticura Soap and Ointment have afforded the speediest and most economical treatment for torturing, disfiguring affections of the skin and scalp of infants children and adults. A single cake of Cuticura Soap (25c.) and box of Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are often sufficient. Although sold by druggists and dealers throughout the world, a liberal sample of each, with 32-p. book on the skin, will be sent free on application to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. 4A, Boston.

An Innovation in Oil Heaters

The Perfection Smokeless Oil Heater, with its drums enameled in turquoise, is an ornament to any room, whether in the country or city home.

No home is quite complete without a Perfection Oil Heater. It is a necessity in the fall and spring, when it is too warm to start the regular heating apparatus, and too cool to be without heat. In the midst of winter it is often convenient as an auxiliary heater, as there are always some cold corners in a house.

The enameled heater always presents a nice appearance, as the enamel will not tarnish or burn off. It is not an "enamel paint," but it is the same as the enamel of your cooking utensils.

The Perfection is the most reliable and convenient portable heating device you can find. An automatically-locking flame spreader prevents turning the wick high enough to smoke.

One of the largest funerals held in this vicinity for several years was the funeral of the late Bruce Smiley, which was conducted from his late home on Speers Hill. The house was filled to overflowing and large numbers of friends gathered out side to pay their last respects to one who was loved and respected by all who knew him. The services were conducted by Rev. T. Milton Gladden, pastor of the Methodist Protestant church, assisted by Rev. David E Minerd The services were very impressive throughout and each spoke of the qualities of the man and how we could look to his qualities of the past and do good. The floral tributes were many and beautiful The music was rendered by the choir of the Methodist Protestant church who sang his favorite hymns "I Would Not Live Away," "Safe in the Arms of Jesus," and "Nearer My God to Thee." The pallbearers were Andrew Miller, Daniel Smiley, of this place, Larimer and Peter Stillwagon, of Connellsville, four nephews of the deceased. SATURDAY EVENING, OCT. 28, 1911.

THE STEEL CORPORATION SUIT.

The filing of a suit against the United States Steel Corporation by the Federal Department of Justice, praying the court to order its dissolution, and likewise the dissolution of its constituent corporations, created consternation in financial circles and panic among some of the smaller shareholders of the corporation whose savings are invested therein.

There is no need to raiarm. Wall street may do as it pleases. Its bulls and bears bull and claw the Steel stocks eternally, but they do not at any time change their real value. While the stocks declined materially yesterday, they are recovering again today. There is no reason why they should not, and investment holders will be wise to hold fast to that which is their own and whose value will be in the end be demonstrated.

The Steel officials are confident of winning their case. Judge Gary, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the company, in an authorized statement, says:

I believe a disclosure of all the facts applicable to the allegations contained in the Government's bill of complaint as a ground for relief will show that the suit ought to be decided in favor of the corporation on its merits; and that the following facts will be established:

1. That in the organization of the United States Steel Corporation those in charge had no intention of creating a monopoly or of restricting trade.

2. That the corporation never has had, or attempted to exercise, a monopoly or to restrain trade.

3. That the conduct of the affairs of the corporation has clearly and positively negatived any effort or intention to violate any provision of the Sherman law.

4. That the existence of the corporation has been of benefit and not of injury to its employes, its customers, its competitors and the general public.

5. That no misrepresentation was made to the President relative to the Tennessee Coal & Iron properties, and that the motive of those connected with the purchase was to prevent a threatened general financial disaster which would have adversely affected the corporation as well as others.

Chairman Gary's analysis of the questions at issue do not differ in any respect from those advanced by The Courier yesterday. We do not think there is the slightest reason for a stampede of stockholders or a business alarm; on the contrary, we believe the Steel Corporation is here to stay, and that the courts will so decide, and furthermore we believe that this will be the decision of the court of first resort as well as the court of last resort.

In any event, this fact is plain, namely, that no ultimate decision of the matter will be arrived at for several years to come unless the Government abandons its contention. The Oil and Tobacco trust cases were from four to five years in litigation. The Steel corporation will not surrender. Its managers have announced this determination. They say with reason and justice that the Steel Corporation has conscientiously tried to live within the law and they think it has so lived. They, therefore, refuse to be chased out of business on the demand of any political influence.

The attack upon the Steel Corporation came from the Democratic Congress and much political capital was made out of it. It was especially urged that President Roosevelt had authorized the corporation to acquire the property of the Tennessee Coal & Iron Company, and had thus committed the Republican party to the defense of the despised Trusts. In the game of politics every play must be met by a counter-play, hence the suit against the Steel Corporation. President Taft has simply seen the Democrats first. The case is now in the hands of the courts. Under the circumstances, the President could not perhaps refuse to have the matter reviewed and finally determined there. It relieves him of personal responsibility, and he is a candidate for reelection.

Judge Gary's statement of the situation is fair and we think right, and we have no doubt his contentions will receive judicial confirmation. They sound reasonable and we believe they will be adjudged to be right.

There is, therefore, no reason for panic on the part of investment holders of Steel stock or on the part of the business interests of the Connellsville coke region. The end is a long distance off and in all probability it will not be in the least unsatisfactory. We believe that the Steel Corporation will continue intact, but if by any accident of misapplied justice its dissolution is decreed, we will be just as well off under Home Rule as we are under Federated Government.

Contrary to the Creeds of all the Churches of Christendom.

IS NO SECOND PROBATION

Russellism Claims Millenium Is Here and Running Side by Side With All the Wickedness and Apostasy of the Present Day.

Special to The Courier.

SCOTTDALE, Oct. 28.—The Presbyterian Church was crowded again last evening to hear Dr. James M. Gray, Dean of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, take up another topic of the conference, "Old Foes in New Forms, or the Heresies of the Millenial Dawn," or what is popularly known as "Russellism," which is spread by means of public lectures and published matter, some of it in the newspapers under the title of "Pastor Russell's Sermon."

Before taking up the subject there were prayers by Rev. Charles E. Bernhard, former Secretary of the local Y. M. C. A., now of Carlisle, Pa., who came on for the conference, Rev. E. G. Sawyer, the evangelist, who opens in Binghampton, N. Y., a religious work next week, and Rev. W. J. Muir of the Reformed Church. Secretary W. J. Graef announced that Dr. Gray, contrary to his usual custom on Saturday's, will hold two meetings today, one at 3.30 and the other at 7.30 P. M., the evening subject being one naturally following "The Millenial Dawn," the life of the churches, "The Second Coming of Christ." The Sunday afternoon meeting will be at 3.30 and the Sunday evening one immediately following the regular services at the churches.

Rev. Dr. Gray in opening his address told briefly of the Moody Bible Institute, in which there are about 700 students, several of them being or having been from this section. Of Scottdale he said that it has been a great pleasure and a great inspiration and help to be among such people who have got great reason for praising God. He continued that they have the spirit of God in their power and prayer and their interest in Bible study, and should have great evangelistic power. He said as one who travels much about that he was speaking discriminatingly.

Taking up "Russellism" he said in part that this school of religious teaching which formerly had its headquarters in Allegheny and later in Brooklyn is represented apparently by only one man. But whether represented by one or many, the enterprise shows great business ability and zeal. Its books and papers are issued in several languages, are sold at a very low prices, and also given away in large quantities. The zeal of the movement not infrequently shows itself in the distribution of such literature at meetings such as the one in progress. Page after page of it may be read revealing no serious errors in the light of the Word of God, until finally one comes upon something startling in its almost pagan strangeness, as compared therewith.

Like Christian Science, too, the teaching seems peculiarly attractive to the more spiritually minded in our churches, whom it leads away into serious error; for while spiritually minded, they are not, of course, the most Scripturally intelligent.

One of the most eminent Bible teachers of our day, Dr. William G. Moorehead, President of Xenia Theological Seminary, describes the teaching as a "mixture of Unitarianism, Universalism, Second Probation, and the Swedenborgian method of exegesis; doing infinite dishonor to the Son of God, and seeking to make our redemption rest on the work of a human being, like ourselves, except that he is without sin. And, besides, "perhaps among all the books of the English speaking world there is not another which contains so many errors as 'Millenial Dawn.'"

Dr. Gray remarked that the "Pastor Russell Sermons" were so widely published in newspapers that editors had written to the Moody Institute saying that there should be something to oppose them and that the Moody Institute the first of the year will issue through a syndicate a weekly Bible study for the newspapers.

He said further that it was difficult to note in a few words the errors of "Millenial Dawn," but that they gather about the Person and work of Christ, the doctrines of grace relating to salvation and the future life of the saved and the unsaved. Dr. Gray said:

"The Bible teaches that Jesus Christ is the eternal Son of God, or in other words that he is God, and that at a certain point He took to Himself a perfect human nature, body, soul and spirit, being made in all points like as we are, yet without sin. 'Millenial Dawn' denies the deity of Jesus, and his incarnation, his resurrection and his second coming. It teaches that He has already come, holding, I believe, that the second advent took place in some mysterious way in 1874, and hence, that during the whole of this 37 years the millenium has been on this earth, and running side by side with all its wickedness and apostasy. They take the view, however, that this present order of things will end in 1911, or about three years hence, thus making themselves party to another error as crude and palpable as any that have been named. They teach error regarding salvation, and their teaching about the future life is particularly alluring to the unwary. Here is presented something very gratifying to the natural heart and easily calculated to lead it astray. 'Millenial Dawn' teaches that when a man dies his soul passes out of existence until the resurrection, contradicting the teaching of Christ in Matthew 10.

"It goes further and teaches that the wicked will have another probation, or opportunity, to receive Jesus Christ during the millenium. I am here quoting it literally, 'the sacrifice of Christ secured for all mankind, however vile, an awakening from death, and the privilge of thereafter coming to perfection, and, if saved, of living forever.' Not only without foundation in the Bible but contrary to its teachings from beginning to end. But 'Millenial Dawn' is not only contrary to the teachings of the Bible, but to all the creeds of Christendom, without exception. Those creeds are the expressions of the Roman and Greek Catholic churches, the Calvanistic churches and the Armenian churches."

The speaker cited many scriptural references in support of the attitude of all the churches in all the ages against the teachings of the "Millenial Dawn."

His Closing Sermon.

Rev. D. W. Michael, one of the most popular ministers ever in Scottdale, will preach the closing sermon of his pastorate at the St. Paul's Lutheran church on Sunday morning. SHIFT

If Your Food Fails to Sustain You, Change.

One sort of diet may make a person despondent, depressed and blue and a change to the kind of food the body demands will change the whole thing.

A young woman from Phila. says:

"For several years I kept in a run-down, miserable sort of condition, was depressed and apprehensive of trouble. I lost flesh in a distressing way and seemed in a perpetual sort of dreamy nightmare. No one serious disease showed, but the 'all over' sickness was enough.

"Finally, between the doctor and father, I was put on Grape-Nuts and cream, as it was decided I must have nourishing food that the body could make use of.

"The wonderful change that came over me was not, like Jonah's gourd, the growth of a single night, and yet it came with a rapidity that astonished me.

"During the first week I gained in weight, my spirits improved, and the world began to look brighter and more worth while.

"And this has continued steadily, till now, after the use of Grape-Nuts for only a few weeks, I am perfectly well, feel splendidly, take a lively interest in everything, and am a changed person in every way." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

FOR THE WORKINGMAN
SOUTH CONNELLSVILLE
LOTS ARE BARGAINS.

The Details Are About Complete For Mine Bureau Demonstration Next Week

Aside from assurance from President Taft, Secretary of the Interior Fisher, Governors of States and more than a score of members of the House of Representatives and Senate of the United States that they will be present at the National Mine Safety demonstration which will open in Pittsburg next Monday and Tuesday under the auspices of the Bureau of Mines, the American National Red Cross and Pittsburg Coal Operators' Association, acceptance of invitations have been received from more than 1,500 expert mining engineers, more than 3,000 representatives of mine and mining interests, representing miners' organizations and mining corporations in this and other countries, the miners' representatives speaking for more than 30,000 of their fellow workers.

No such assembly has ever been held in the world, and demonstrations will be made such as the world has never before witnessed or had described. The first day of the two devoted to the meeting, Monday, October 30, will be given over to demonstrations in the interests of mine safety and mine rescue; the second day, October 31, to contests of "teams" from every part of the country, more than 50 of them struggling for trophies for the best work in "first aid" for the injured in accord with the system developed by the American Red Cross.

The National Red Cross car, beautiful and looking brand new, though it is 30 years old, built for the Red Cross and paid for from its funds, arrived Wednesday in charge of Dr. M. J. Shields, chief of the field department of the organization, who will direct the operations in "first aid" contests at Forbes Field. The car is one for instruction It is sent to cities and towns of the country, and teams are formed for "first aid." There are sleeping berths for Dr. Shields and his assistants, a range for cooking and the remainder of the long coach is a hall with camp stools for those who are being instructed.

Contest teams from Tacoma, Washington and Dawson, Mexico, arrived yesterday and will be in practise during the week under direction of the Bureau of Mines, which has an expert team of its own This team was at work Wednesday evening in the plaza of the Bureau of Mines, at the old Arsenal, in Lawrenceville, and its work in rescue, in quick carriage on stretchers to a place of safety, bandaging of imaginary wounds and administering of oxygen was only less impressive, only less tragically thrilling, than actual rescue work. The rescue car of the Illinois Mining Company will come today and from this day on cars and teams will fairly stream into the city.

The demonstrations will be conducted at the Arsenal grounds Monday morning from 9 until 12 o'clock, with explosions, safety lamps, fuel testing, etc., explosions of coal dust and gases being made in the gallery which has been in use there since the establishment of the laboratory in Pittsburg. In the afternoon these demonstrations will be continued until the departure of special trains for Bruceton, where the most interesting demonstrations of the meeting will be made by an actual mine explosion in the experimental mine at that place.

Other countries have been talking for years of an experimental mine, but America is the first to get one. It may be that this mine will be blown to smithereens. Nobody can tell. It has hitherto suffered only slight explosions. Fine coal dust will be placed on slabs in all parts of the mine, main passage galleries, and dead air spaces. A pound or so of black powder will be exploded. It is expected that it will set a-going the coal dust in every part of the mine, and that the result will tell a new story to miners and operators in every part of the world.

Immediately following the explosion experts of the Bureau of Mines will enter with safety helmets to discover the condition of walls, roof and atmosphere. More than this, and something that has never before been done, before, it goes without saying, instruments will be imbedded in the mine, thermometers, to show the temperature; speedometers to show the velocity of air currents and to show air pressure, all self-recording, and which are expected to tell an eloquent story which could certainly not be told in any other way, if they are not also blown up. Experts are coming from all parts of America, and it might be said from the ends of the earth, for the special purpose of witnessing this experiment and its effects. Some of them will enter the mine with the experts of the Bureau of Mines, that may report to the Government.

Monday evening a reception will be held at the Fort Pitt Hotel, that the miners and other visitors may meet Secretary Fisher and Professor Joseph A. Holmes, director of the Bureau of Mines.

President Taft will arrive Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock. The committee appointed to receive him is composed of Senator George T. Oliver, Representative John Dalzell, James Francis Burke, A. J. Barchfeld and S. G. Porter; Mayor W. A. Magee, Director Holmes, of the Bureau; F. R. Babcock, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and W. H. Stevenson, president of the Historical Society.

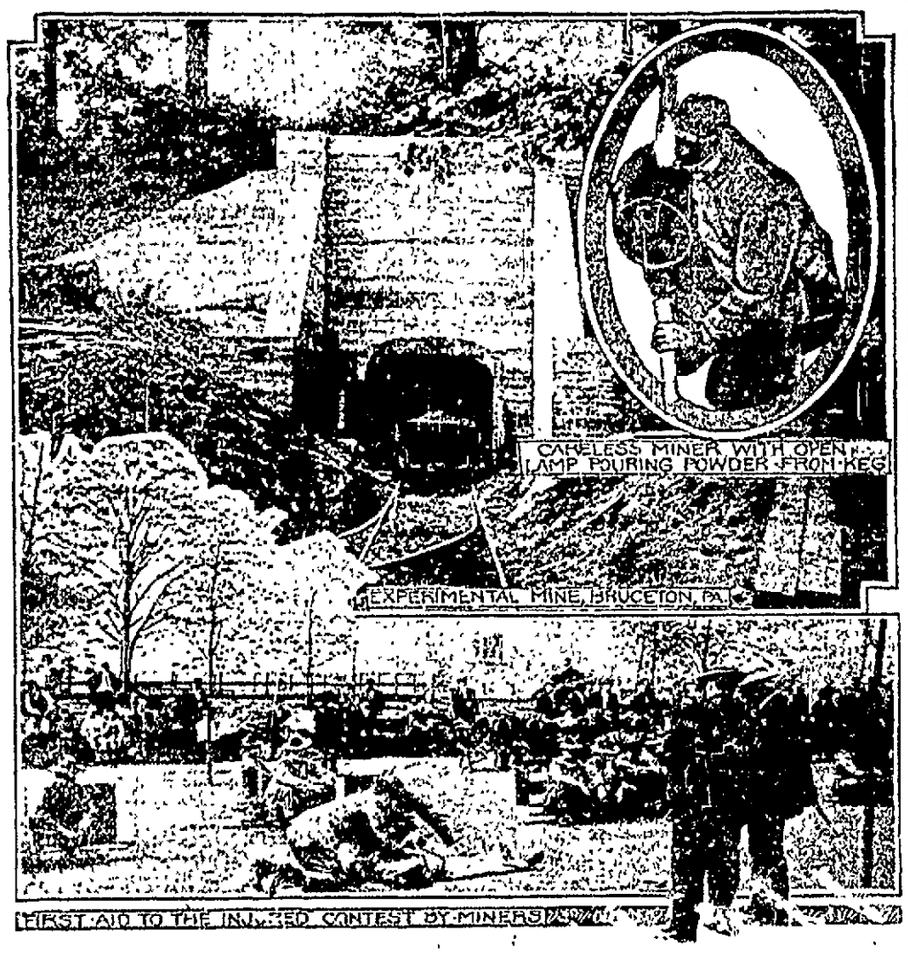

The route of the President from the Pennsylvania station to the Schenley Hotel, where he will be a guest, will be announced later. It is likely there will be a long procession of automobiles—though it is not intended there shall be any formal parade.

As the list has not been revised and verified names of all the distinguished persons of officialdom who will be here cannot be given. At the Mines Congress, which will be in session at Chicago for the remainder of this week, there will be a "Congress of Governors," and it is expected that nearly all of these Governors, at least those from mining States, will come to Pittsburg in the wake of the President.

The second day, Tuesday, will have Forbes Field for the center of interest. It will be mainly devoted to first aid contests, and it is promised that no baseball game on that famous field was ever so impressive as that spectacle of next week will be. Aside from the many other features of first aid work there will be real explosions in the new gallery, 130 feet long and six feet in diameter, realistic rescues and first aid work of every description taught by the Red Cross. There will come the presentation of trophies to the victorious contestants by President Taft and brief addresses by Governor Tener, Secretary Fisher and Miss Mabel Boardman of the Red Cross.

A very neat souvenir program was issued in limited numbers yesterday, prepared by C. S. Stevenson, secretary of the general committee Mr. Cochran of the publicity committee at Washington came on to assist in the work of final arrangements and to care for the many local newspaper men and the army of correspondents which will be on hand to "write up" the affair. The manager of the field events will be J. W. Paul of the Bureau of Mines; manager of first aid events, Dr. M. J. Shields of the Red Cross; manager of explosions, Clarence Hall of the Bureau of Mines, who is himself inventor of an individual oxygen helmet; field marshal, Francis Feehan, of the Miners' Union; chief usher, J. K. Clement.

To care for the crowd of invited visitors the most perfect arrangements have been made. Those from a distance have been assigned hotel accommodations, and guides will be at hand to give every assistance and information needed.

"No, nothing's happened yet, but it's going to, blame quick. I've taken your preaching to heart, and I've come to the penitent form. I've taken my last drink. You're marrying a whisky-soak, but your husband won't be that. He's going to grow into another man so quick you won't know him. A couple of months from now, up there in Glen Ellen, you'll wake up some morning and find you've got a perfect stranger in the house with you, and you'll have to get introduced to him all over again. You'll say, 'I'm Mrs. Harnish, who are you?' And I'll say, 'I'm Elam Harnish's younger brother. I've just arrived from Alaska to attend the funeral.' 'What funeral?' you'll say. And I'll say, 'Why the funeral of that good-for-nothing, gambler, whisky-drinking Burning Daylight—the man that died of fatty degeneration of the heart from sitting in night and day at the business game.' 'Yes, ma'am,' I'll say, 'he's sure a gone 'coon, but I've come to take his place and make you happy. And now, ma'am, if you'll allow me, I'll just meander down to the pasture and milk the cow while you're getting breakfast.'"

"But you haven't answered my questions," she reprimanded him, as she emerged, rosy and radiant, from the embrace that had accompanied the culmination of his narrative.

"Now just what do you want to know?" he asked.

"I want to know how all this is possible? How you are able to leave your business at a time like this? What you meant by saying that something was going to happen quickly?"

"Let's go and get married," he urged, all the whimsicality of his utterance duplicated in his eyes. "I've been working like forty horses ever since this blamed panic set in, and all the time some of those ideas you'd given me were getting ready to sprout. Well, they sprouted this morning, that's all. I knew I wanted to ride in the hills with you just about thirty million times more than I wanted to go to the office. And I knew all the time it was impossible. And why? Because of the office. The office wouldn't let me. And then I made up my mind that I was to the dividing of the ways. One way led to the office. The other way led to Berkeley. And I took the Berkeley road. I'm never going to set foot in the office again. That's all gone, finished, over and done with, and I'm letting it slide clean to smash and then some. I'm wiping the slate clean. I'm letting it all go smash. When them thirty million dollars stood up to my face and said I couldn't go out with you in the hills today, I knew the time had come for me to put my foot down. And I'm putting it down. I've got you, and my strength to work for you, and that little ranch in Sonoma. That's all I want, and that's all I'm going to save out, along with Lob and Wolf, a suit case and a hundred and forty hair bridles. All the rest goes, and good riddance. It's that much junk."

A knock at the door interrupted him, and he was left to stare delightedly at the Crouched Venus and on around the room at Dede's dainty possessions, while she answered the telephone.

"It is Mr. Hegan," she said, on returning. "He is holding the line. He says it is important."

Daylight shook his head and smiled. "Please tell Mr. Hegan to hang up. I'm done with the office and I don't want to hear anything about anything."

A minute later she was back again. "He refuses to hang up. He told me to tell you that Unwin is in the office now, waiting to see you, and Harrison, too. Mr. Hegan said that Grimshaw and Hodgkins are in trouble. That it looks as if they are going to break. And he said something about protection."

It was startling information. Both Unwin and Harrison represented big banking corporations, and Daylight knew that if the house of Grimshaw and Hodgkins went it would precipitate a number of failures and start a flurry of serious dimensions. But Daylight smiled, and shook his head.

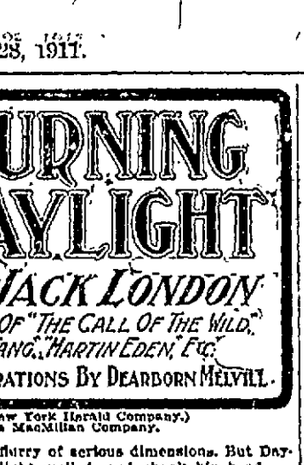

He caught her by the hand and drew her to him.

"You let Hegan hang on to that line till he's tired. We can't be wasting a second on him on a day like this."

"But I know something of the fight you have been making," Dede contended. "If you stop now, all the work you have done, everything, will be destroyed. You have no right to do it. You can't do it."

Daylight was obdurate. He shook his head and smiled tantalizingly.

"Nothing will be destroyed, Dede, nothing. You don't understand this business game. It's done on paper. All I stand for is paper. I've got the paper for thousands of acres of land. All right. Burn up the paper, and burn me along with it. The land remains, don't it? Nothing is going to be lost—not one pile out of the docks, not one railroad spike, not one ounce of steam out of the gauge of a ferryboat. The cars will go on running, whether I hold the paper or somebody else holds it."

By this time Hegan had arrived in an automobile. The honk of it came in through the open window, and they saw it stop alongside the big red machine. In the car were Unwin and Harrison, while Jones sat with the chauffeur.

"I'll see Hegan," Daylight told Dede. "There's no need for the rest. They can wait in the machine."

"Is he drunk?" Hegan whispered to Dede at the door.

She shook her head and showed him in.

"Good morning, Larry," was Daylight's greeting. "Sit down and rest your feet. You sure seem to be in a flutter."

"I am," the little Irishman snapped back. "Grimshaw and Hodgkins are going to smash if something isn't done quick. Why didn't you come to the office? What are you going to do about it?"

"Nothing," Daylight drawled lazily. "Except let them smash, I guess. I've had no dealings with Grimshaw and Hodgkins. I don't owe them anything. Besides, I'm going to smash myself. Look here, Larry, you know me. You know when I make up my mind I mean it. Well, I've sure made up my mind. I'm tired of the whole game. I'm letting go of it as fast as I can, and a smash is the quickest way to let go. All you've got to do is to protect yourself and all our friends. Now you listen to me while I tell you what to do. Everything is in good shape to do it. Nobody must get hurt. Everybody that stood by me must come through without damage. All the back wages and salaries must be paid pronto. All the money I've switched away from the water company, the street cars, and the ferries must be switched back. And you won't get hurt yourself none. Every company you got stock in will come through—"

"What have you done to him?" Hegan snarled at Dede.

"Hold on there, Larry." For the first time Daylight's voice was sharp, while all the old lines of cruelty in his face stood forth. "Miss Mason is going to be my wife, and while I don't mind your talking to her all you want, you've got to use a different tone of voice or you'll be heading for a hospital, which will sure be an unexpected sort of smash. And let me tell you one other thing. This all is my doing. She says I'm crazy, too."

Dede stepped forward where she confronted the two men.

"Wait," she said. "I want to say something. Elam, if you do this insane thing, I won't marry you. I refuse to marry you."

"I'll take my chance on that," Daylight said. "And now, Larry, you'd better be going. I'll be at the hotel in a little while, and since I'm not going to step into the office again, bring all papers to sign and the rest over to my rooms. And you can get me on the 'phone there any time. This smash is going through. Savvee? I'm quit and done."

He turned to Dede as soon as Hegan was gone, and took her by the hand.

"And now, little woman, you needn't come to the office any more. Consider yourself discharged."

"I'd cry, if I thought it would do any good," she threatened.

"In which case I reckon I'd have to hold you in my arms some more and sort of soothe you down," he threatened back.

As he stood at the top of the steps, leaving, she said:—

"You needn't send those men. There will be no packing, because I am not going to marry you."

"I'm not a bit scared," he answered, and went down the steps.

GARY CONFIDENT OF THE RESULT.

In Formal Statement U. S. Steel Offical Urges Calmness.

SAYS JUSTICE WILL BE DONE.

It Will Be Months Before Legal Machinery Is Under Full Headway, President Taft in Chicago Speech Touches on Government's Move.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—After a day of intense excitement in the stock market, with especially severe declines in the securities of the United States Steel Corporation, the appended statement was issued last night by Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board:

I think it would be improper for me at this time to make any comments concerning the suit which has been brought by the government against the United States Steel Corporation, except to say I regret exceedingly that the Department of Justice felt called upon to institute proceedings. If any harm results it will fall upon the stockholders and employes, aggregating a very large number and any loss to them must be deplored. It is a time for everybody to keep cool, with a disposition to patiently await results, knowing that in the end justice will be done to all interests.

I believe a disclosure of all the facts applicable to the allegations contained in the government's bill of complaint as a ground for relief will show that the suit ought to be decided in favor of the corporation on the merits and that the following facts will be established:

1. That in the organization of the United States Steel Corporation those in charge had no intention of creating a monopoly or of restraining trade.

2. That the corporation never has had, or attempted to exercise a monopoly or to restrain trade.

3. That the conduct of the affairs of the corporation has clearly and positively negatived any effort or intention to violate any provision of the Sherman law.

4. That the existence of the corporation has been of benefit and not of injury to its employes, its customers, its competitors and the general public.

5. That no misrepresentation was made to the President relative to the Tennessee Coal and Iron properties, and that the motive of those connected with the purchase was to prevent a threatened general financial disaster which would have adversely affected the corporation as well as others.

THE LEGAL PROCEDURE.

Of Suit Brought to Dissolve the U. S. Steel Corporation.

WASHINGTON Oct. 28.—The United States Steel Corporation's first step in the titanic legal battle with the government for its existence will be taken Monday, December 4. On that day an army of counsel which promises to include some of the most brilliant legal minds in America will formerly appear before the United States Circuit Court at Trenton N. J., in which the government's dissolution suit has been brought.

On January 2, 1912 the Steel Corporation is expected to file its answer to the government's sensational charges, which have already been published in all the anti-trust suits brought by the Department of Justice.

Several legal maneuvers of which the Steel Corporation's lawyers could avail themselves, may postpone the date of their answer, for they have the right to ask the court to give 30 days' more grace, thus extending their time to February 2.

The procedure would be for Judges Gray, Lanning and Buffington to appoint a master to hear testimony. The master so appointed will take evidence in various parts of the country. It required a year and a half to take the testimony in the Standard Oil case. That was considered fairly quick time. The government hopes to do as well with the Steel Corporation.

When the taking of testimony is finished and both sides have been heard the Circuit Court will decide the issue. Whichever side loses will appeal and by the operation of the so-called expediting act, the case will jump to the Supreme Court, where the fate of the greatest corporation in the world will be decided. Department of Justice officials do not feel that the Supreme Court decisions in the oil and tobacco cases will decide the steel case. Attorney General Wickersham yesterday declared he was convinced more than ever that each case must be settled upon its own merits and that the oil and tobacco cases could not fairly be called "models" for solving the trust question.

NOT PLAYING POLITICS

President Taft at Chicago Says Trusts Must Obey the Law.

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—In a speech here last night, which was regarded as having a direct bearing upon the government's latest trust prosecution against the United States Steel Corporation, President Taft dented in vigorous language that the administration was being influenced by political motives.

"I would rather cut off my right hand," he exclaimed, "than to do anything to disturb the business of this country, especially with a motive of cultivating political success."

The President said he wanted it to be understood for all time that he intended to enforce the anti-trust law to the letter.

President Taft completed 12,100 miles of his 13,000 mile swing around the circle when he reached this city last night for a three days' stay. In a speech before 5,000 people at the First regiment armory he talked upon railroad rate regulation and the trusts, reiterating his purpose to compel the corporations to obey the anti-trust law as interpreted by the Supreme Court.

"I speak to you of the trusts at a time when the matter is boiling," remarked the President, evidently referring to the suit instituted against the Steel Corporation. He went on to discuss the decisions of the court and to assure the audience that "the government will not let up in its energies against the trusts."

"They must obey the law," said the President. "It may disturb business for a time, but they must be made to know that they cannot monopolize trade to control prices. With all the power at my command I shall back up any effort to bring about a rigid enforcement of the law as laid down.

"I would rather cut off my right hand than disturb business," exclaimed the President. "I want to encourage business but not when it is conducted contrary to the law. That I will not tolerate if I can do anything to help it.

"Now that we have the decisions of the Supreme Court, I expect that business will square itself with the new conditions and that soon things will be normal again. It is a man's own conscience that will tell him if he is violating the law.

"On the one hand I am charged with destroying business," the President went on, "and on the other hand I am accused of having fixed it in the Supreme Court so as to protect business that is not properly conducted. Of course that is not true. It is outrageous for such a charge to be made about my influencing the Supreme Court.

"Only a few combinations in the country come under the class of corporations that try to control trade by unlawful means. No matter how many there were I would not be deterred from enforcing the law up to the letter.

"Now I hope that is understood," exclaimed the President, and the crowd laughed.

KEEP YOUR HEAD UNCOVERED.

The Constant Wearing of a Hat Propogates Dandruff Germs.

There are many men who wear their hats practically all the time when awake, and are blessed with a heavy shock of hair; yet if the scalps of these same men once before infested with dandruff germs, the parasites would multiply all the quicker for lack of air. Baldness would ensue as the final result. Newbro's Herpicide kills these germs and stimulates unhealthy hair to abundant growth. Herpicide is a pleasant hair dressing as well as a dandruff cure and contains not an atom of injurious substance. Sold by leading druggists. The Stage and The Players.

A Scene from "The Old Homestead."

AT THE THEATRE.

THE SOISSON.

"The Old Homestead."

"The Old Homestead," but comes to the Soisson Monday, Oct. 30, is a play that never seems to grow old. Denman Thompson once said, "I don't know, but some people think I have stuck to Joshua Whitcomb too long. I don't think so. At first it was a sketch, not more than 25 minutes long, and presented the street scene in Boston in which Uncle Joshua had a number of excitable and laughable adventures, and the birthday party in which he made the liveliest sort of merriment homely talk. I did my best to give an accurate imitation of two actual personages in Swanzey, whom I had known and seen every day in my childhood. In the summer of 1875," continued Mr. Thompson, "when I was giving my sketch at the Coliseum in Chicago, I met J. M. Hill, who was a New Hampshire man and a very shrewd one, and by his advice "The Old Homestead" was developed into its present proportions. To be sure some interpolations had been made, but it has always remained a homely but true picture of farm life to illustrate the best there is in human nature, to awaken the memories and to stir the emotions of men and women who have come from a farm, and to teach a wholesome lesson to the young.

"The Old Homestead" in its entirety was presented to the public for the first time at the Boston theatre in April 1886, but for years previous the public was familiar with Uncle Joshua which had its first presentment at Harry Martin's Varieties, Pittsburg, in February 1875. In September, 1875, Joshua Whitcomb was introduced to the New York public at the Lyceum theatre and proved a tremendous success. Uncle Joshua was always a welcome guest in Boston and the receipts of the first week in "The Old Homestead" at the Boston theatre were $11,279 25. Several minor characters like Ed. Ganzey, (Whistling Ed) and the Hoboken tough, which has since fitted so excellently with the spirit and scheme of the play were not in the original production.

Venita Fitz Hugh Louise Bliss Harold Ford, Ralph Rigks, Gilbert Clayton, Harrison Brockband, George Cummings and Bertram Fox.

Francis Wilson has a new play, written by himself which he will produce during the holidays. He is in the third season of his successful play, "A Bachelor's Baby."

Augustus Thomas may be the director of the New Theatre, New York. But he will accept it only on his own terms of hands off on the part of the founders and their friends.

"The Poor Rich" is the title of a new play which Paul Wilstach has written for Tim Murphy, who will use it on his Southern tour until Thanksgiving, after which time he will give his entire attention to it.

Mrs. Forbes Robertson Hale, niece of the famous actor, has quitted the stage for a year and a half to devote herself to suffrage work. She will take her infant child along to prove that babies do not necessarily conflict with ballots.

The new musical comedy recently produced in New York by Glen MacDonough, Baldwin Sloane and Ray Goetz has woman's suffrage for its theme.

The drama by Edward Childs Carpenter, in which Guy Bates Post is to star this season, has had its title changed from "The Great Desire" to "The Challenge."

Plays and Players.

Masterlinck is writing a new fairy play for production in London next season.

Edna Goodrich is to appear in vaudeville with the English comedian, G. P. Huntley.

Henry Mortimer has written a play called "His Knightly Honor," in which he will appear himself.

Dorothy Dorr will soon come forth in the title role of a play by Miss Geraldine Bonner, entitled "Bob's Sister."

"The Convict" has been decided on for the name of Guy Bates Post's new play by Edward Childs Carpenter.

"A Modern Marriage," in which Cyril Scott started out to star, did not measure up to expectations, so he is to substitute "Speed."

Kate Rorke, who was Charles Wyndham's leading lady twenty-five years ago, is playing in the newest Drury Lane melodrama.

Announcement has been made in London that David Belasco has obtained the American rights to "The Spider's Web," a play by Austin Strong.

Bob Fitzimmons is to appear in vaudeville in a playlet by Jack London called "Her Birth Mark." His leading woman will be Magda Dahl.

Frank Keenan report has it has left the cast of "A Million," and will be replaced by Daniel Pawley. Mr. Keenan will return to vaudeville.

Edward Peple, the author of "Prince Chap" and "The Little Rebel," has just finished another play called "The Call of the Cricket" in which Beulah Poynter will star in the near future.

Mrs. Fiske will begin her season in Langdon Mitchell's new comedy, "The New Marriage," at Syracuse, N. Y., tonight. After the opening in Syracuse and a week in Pittsburg, Mrs. Fiske will go to Chicago for a season of eight weeks before presenting the play in New York.

The cast of Victor Herbert's new comic opera, "The Enchantress," in which Kitty Gordon is to have the leading part, and which will open in New York tomorrow evening, includes Nellie McCoy, Hattie Arnold, Ada and

THE LINNELL CASE BAFFLING MYSTERY.

Police Say Evidence Against Rev. Richeson Is Strong.

HIS DEFENSE IS VIGOROUS

Accused Minister Claims He Will Be Able to Prove That Engagement Was Broken by Miss Linnell Herself and That He Is Innocent of Murder.

Special to The Courier.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 28.—Not for years has Boston been so thoroughly interested and stirred up as it is at present by the mystery surrounding the death, two weeks ago, of Miss Avis Linnell, a young and beautiful music student at the New England Conservatory of Music in this city, who died from poison in the bathroom of the Young Women's Christian Association lodging house on Warrenton street on the evening of Saturday, Oct. 14. At first little attention was paid to the case, as it was believed that the death of the girl was caused by a fatal mistake or that she had committed suicide.

But the sensational features which, at first, seemed to be lacking were soon supplied when the autopsy of the girl's body by the medical examiner disclosed the fact that the girl was in a delicate condition at the time of her death. The report that Miss Linnell had for two years been engaged to the Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson, formerly of Hyannisport, Mass., but now pastor of the Immanuel Baptist church, Cambridge, and that quite recently the engagement of the young pastor to Miss Violet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Moses Grant Edmands of Brookline, had been formally announced, naturally increased public interest in the case and since then the local newspapers have devoted many columns a day to the thorough discussion of every detail connected with the mysterious case and to accounts of the new developments from day to day.

From the very beginning, almost, there had been hints that possibly the Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson knew more about the circumstances surrounding the death of Miss Avis Linnell than he chose to admit. As the investigation progressed a strong suspicion arose that the young pastor had been in some way connected with the death of his former fiancee and few persons who had followed the developments of the case as reported by the newspapers, were surprised when, a week ago today, Rev. Richeson was arrested at the Edmands mansion in Brookline upon the charge of murder.

The history of the case, so far as it is known at present, presents many features of uncommon interest. The Rev. Clarence Vlisil Thompson Richeson was born in Rose Hill, Va., about 35 years ago. He comes from a family of devout Baptists, many of whom are engaged in church and missionary work in various parts of the world. Young Richeson received a good academic education and, having prepared himself for the ministry at several institutions of learning, was ordained at St. Louis, in September, 1902. After having supplied a mission church at Kansas City for a while, young Richeson entered the William Jewell College at Liberty, Mo. A woman school teacher in Liberty, who took great interest in the bright and ambitious student, lent him the funds which he needed to complete his education at William Jewell College and later at the Newton Theological Seminary, where he completed his studies in the fall of 1909.

About one year before he had been called to the Hyannis Baptist Church and he remained in charge of that church until he resigned in April, 1910, to take charge of Immanuel Baptist church, Cambridge. When Richeson became pastor of the Hyannis church Avis Linnell was a student at the Hyannis High school. She had a fine voice and used to sing in Richeson's church. The young and handsome minister became acquainted with the beautiful and charming young school girl and associated a great deal with her. The attentions of the young minister to Avis Linnell, the daughter of a fairly well-to-do carpenter at Hyannis, were so marked that nobody was surprised when the girl displayed a handsome diamond ring upon her engagement finger and admitted to her friends that she was engaged to Richeson.

When Rev Richeson left Hyannis and became pastor of the Immanuel Church in Cambridge, Avis Linnell followed him to Boston. She entered the Conservatory as a voice student and lived at the Y. W. C. A. home on Warrenton street. When she was informed that Rev. Richeson's engagement to Miss Edmands, the daughter of a wealthy family in Brookline, had been formally announced, Avis Linnell did not lose her confidence in her lover. She said it must be a mistake and continued to meet the fickle minister. She frequently visited him at his lodgings and went out with him. On the evening of Oct. 14, she returned to her lodgings and about an hour later she was found dead in the bathroom. Her death was caused by cyanide of potassium and the police are said to have positive proof that Richeson purchased a quantity of the poison the day before the girl's death.
